WHY JOIN?

Across South Africa, young people, producers, and community partners have spent the past year creating audio stories and public dialogues that bring the Just Energy Transition to life. We invite you to join a reflective discussion with the team behind the work. Together, we'll unpack what we learned about youth voice, community-centred storytelling, and the role of radio as a civic dialogue space.

- You can expect behind-the-scenes insights from the production team
- Reflections on community dialogues and what young listeners taught us
- Lessons for storytellers, funders, and practitioners working on energy justice
- Space for Q&A with the Radio Workshop team
